

In Loving Memory of
Eudora Campese

August 8, 1940 – February 4, 2010

The Cathedral of the Incarnation is a Catholic Church in the Anglican Tradition, located in College Park, Florida. Our deeply rooted Christian traditions adapt easily to our contemporary lives. Visit us this Sunday. We are a growing community of friends and families welcoming you into our caring congregation.

Cathedral of the Incarnation

A CATHOLIC CHURCH IN THE ANGLICAN TRADITION

1515 Edgewater Drive, Orlando, FL 32804
407-843-2886 theparish.org

THE Eudora Campese Memorial Columbarium

Cathedral of the Incarnation

A CATHOLIC CHURCH IN THE ANGLICAN TRADITION

The Eudora Campese Memorial Columbarium

What is a Columbarium?

A columbarium is an assembly of niches designed to house urns containing a deceased person's cremated remains. The word comes from the Latin word columba, meaning "dovecôte" (dove house), which named the structure of brick niches housing cremated remains in the Roman Empire. The word also came to be used to describe places where Christians gathered for prayer, and lies behind our English word for chapel. For Christians, the imagery of the dove is a witness to the Holy Spirit, "the Lord and giver of life," who sustains us not only in this life but in life eternal, and who is the giver of comfort and peace.

Cremation and Christian Belief

"I am the resurrection and the life," says the Lord. "Those who believe in me, even though they die, will live, and everyone who lives and believes in me will never die." (John 11:25-26) Christians know God to be Lord of both life and death, and trust in Jesus Christ and the power of his resurrection. They commit their bodies to the earthly finality expressed in the words, "ashes to ashes and dust to dust," in sure and certain hope of God's power to raise them to new and everlasting life. Consequently, cremation is not only an appropriate Christian means of caring for the body once one has died, increasingly it is also a matter of good and faithful stewardship.

Why a Columbarium at the Cathedral?

The columbarium makes it possible for members and Christian friends of the Cathedral to have their cremated remains and those of their loved ones placed with those of others who have worshiped at the Cathedral. The Eudora Campese Memorial Columbarium is named in memory of Eudora Campese, the beloved wife of Bishop Louis Campese. This lasting testament to Eudora's life, faith and work will provide a loving memorial to all inurned therein, bearing witness to their relationship with this church and community of faith.

Active members, or Christian non-members, may purchase a niche with a right to inurn. The choice of niche location is by order of purchase. The cost for a single niche is $800 for church members and $1,000 for non-members.

Requests for application for purchase should be directed to the church's office at 407-843-2886.

